Hello fellow detectives,

I got a call today from Glen Green at BSS. They are trying to figure out the ownership of a mystery box that has been damaged. As he described it to me (at 1715 Whitley) I realized that we saw it also on our BID walk-through in April and flagged it as a problem as well. I am attaching photo we took in April, and I pulled an image from google maps (which I notice was dated Dec 2014)

He is concerned about the safety of pedestrians – but has checked with Bureau of Street Lighting and DOT – and they say it is not theirs.

I love a mystery.

Couple thoughts:

- Could it be related to the stage lights on Hollywood Blvd – where we've never been able to figure out exactly where their power source came from?
- Could it be related to the subway construction?
- Could it be linked somehow to the city parking lot at Cherokee, because the little walkway that is now gated used to run directly through to the Cherokee lot.

He said they checked with USA to see what they had on official records, and nothing came up. Somebody took care to install those bollards to protect it, but obviously that was not enough.

Any hunches?

Kerry

P.S. Steve Seyler, I am copying you on this to see if your team tomorrow could keep an eye out to see if they see anything that looks similar on the north side of Hollywood Blvd.

My understanding is its related to the stage lights on the Blvd...
Which were CRA, correct?
